DEDICATION

EDWARD J.
HAYES

To you, Mr. Hayes, our Senior Class Advisor, we, the Class of 1986, are proud to dedicate with love and gratitude to you, our “IVY TOWER.”

As a faculty member of the English Department, Honor Society Advisor, our class advisor, and sincere friend to all, we wish to express our appreciation. With our interest always at heart, you have played an important part in our four years. Your inspiration, wisdom, and untiring efforts will long be remembered. Your true sense of humor and guidance helped us cope more easily with our many problems; for all of this, the Class of 1986 says thank you, to a very special man.

The theme “Flying Free” is reflected in the knowledge learned, the friendships made, and the experiences shared. Knowing the many tribulations as well as the joys that have marked the last four years, our theme is denoted by the free spirited sea gull. To view the stillness of the white cloud formation on the vibrant blue sky and the beauty of the gull in flight, portrays a true sense of peacefulness.

The knowledge that growth has brought us a little closer to adulthood has also brought the revelation that we also share many struggles. To be free to assume the responsibility of learning and discovering gives a higher meaning and purpose to life. Symbols such as flags, clouds, balloons, kites, leaves, fireworks, and butterflies give additional significance to our theme; and the reality of our own potential to be able to fly free in spirit.

Traveling now into the future, we shall always treasure our memories and continue to hopefully never give up the dream that our lives may one day be without a care. We will then always know the beauty of “Flying Free.”
Go ahead, impress me!
Do you mean it?
Witty and most certainly pretty.

There is a place I call my own — where I can stand by the sea,
And look beyond the things I’ve known and dream that I might be free,
Like the wind above the trees — gliding gently on the breeze,
I wish that all my life I’d be without a care and flying free.

But, life is not a distant sky — without a cloud — without rain,
And I can never hope that I can travel on without pain,
Time goes swiftly on its way — All too soon we’ve lost today,
I cannot wait for skies of blue — Or dream so long that life is through.

So life’s a song that I must sing — a gift of love that I must share,
And when I see the joy it brings my spirits soar through the air.
Like the bird above the trees — gliding gently on the breeze,
I wish that all my life I’d be without a care and flying free.

— song by Don Besig
Thinking back on our four years at Dunkirk High School, it is hard to express what these years have given us, and at the same time, taken from us. This chapter in our lives has now come to a close and, although it will certainly not be forgotten, it is time to look ahead to the future and see what the world has to offer. It is time to fly free.

We began our Freshman year with Meg Elias serving as our president and Janet Hilliker as our vice-president. Melissa Patterson was elected as secretary and Lydia Latona as treasurer. Mr. Daniel Durkin and Mr. E.J. Hayes served as our class advisors, helping us make it through our first year at D.H.S. Homecoming became a learning experience that we will never forget. Our float, sporting the theme “Rainbow to Victory,” brought us a well-deserved fourth place. Becky Cordero was chosen to represent our class at Homecoming. Brian Granata was her escort. The Sophomore party held during the fall was a great success. On February 22, 1984, we learned of the unexpected death of Mr. Durkin. Not only was he a great class advisor but also a close and trusted friend. The halls of Dunkirk High School fell silent that day as we all remembered him in our own special way, reflecting on how he had grace the school with knowledge, enthusiasm, and a caring smile. Dunkirk High School will never be the same without him, but we the class of ’86 will ever carry his memory in our hearts.

Our Junior year began on a frantic note, as it was time for many changes and many new activities. Lydia Latona took charge as our newly elected class president. Janet Hilliker was once again elected as vice-president. Melinda and Marianne Manzella were elected to the offices of corresponding and recording secretaries respectively. Mary Schiavone took over the office of treasurer. Mr. Harper volunteered to help Mr. Hayes advise our class. Homecoming became very controversial this year. The Junior class entered Homecoming with the theme “Don’t Toy With Us.” It included the class dressing up as children in their best pajamas and carrying their favorite toys for spirit day. The float with a large jack-in-the-box gave us third place. But after much wonder and many complaints over this decision it was found that there had been a miscount of votes. The Junior Class had finally earned itself second place. Shannon Peck was our Homecoming queen for the year; she chose Junior Tim Iskra as her escort. The Junior Class also was given the task of putting on the Junior Class play “The Hobbit.” It was a highly enjoyed experience for all involved.

Our third year at D.H.S. also gave us the opportunity to sponsor the Senior Prom. “Nights in White Satin” was chosen as the theme of the event. It was held at Joseph Anthony’s Restaurant with Night Shift providing the entertainment. This was truly an eventful year for all.

Senior year had finally arrived. It gave us Lydia Latona as president and Karyn Cybulski as vice-presidents. Marianne and Melinda Manzella were once again elected as recording and corresponding secretaries. Kyle Kubera became treasurer and Pat Wheeler was elected as Sergeant-at-Arms. The year’s activities were once again planned. They included homecoming, the Senior Class Musical, the Senior sponsored magazine drive, the winter Ball and Senior Prom, and finally the day we had all strived for and finally reached, graduation.

It seems so final that we have come to a time in our lives where we all must go our own ways to seek out and find our place in life. This, however, is not a final episode, it is the beginning of a brand new one that we must all look forward to. We must all fly free.
CUTTING LOOSE

Incredible mile!

"Say what??!

"Who could ask for anything more?"

"This is power??"

The Godfather!!

"What are you looking at??"

"Incredible smile!

Going someplace??

"Who could ask for anything more?"
"Back off! This is my harem!!"

"You wouldn't dare!"

"You call that, lunch?"

"It was just an idea!"

Deep in thought!

Semi-tough!

"It's unbelievable! I can't describe it."
The theme of the Junior-Senior Prom was "Nights in White Satin." Everyone danced to the music played by Night Shift. The Junior King and Queen that were chosen were Brian Granata and Amy Kuschel. The Senior King and Queen were Jim Michalski and Melissa Shareno. This memorable event of our Junior year will always hold a special place in our hearts.
WE'VE COME A LONG WAY, BABY

CANDIDATES AND ESCORTS

"EVERYONE'S STARING AT US!"
Seniors explode into victory

Homecoming '85 "exploded" into victory for the Senior Class. All of their hard work and planning finally proved worthwhile. Their theme, "Blow 'Em Back In Time," gave them a first place victory in both spirit and float competition. The main lobby of the school was transformed into a malt shop named "EJ'S," with periodic songs playing on a jukebox. Many Seniors came to school costumed in the appropriate style of dress from the 50's and 60's, and could be found dancing up a storm in their hall. The entire lobby had an air of nostalgia about it, as did, the display case showing a yearbook, cards, albums, newspapers, photographs, fashion, magazines, political buttons, and other memorabilia of years past. Menu prices, the kissing booth, and movie attractions all were a topic of conversation.

Homecoming queen candidates and their escorts were: Chris Banach and Larry Budniewski; JoAnn De Jesus and Frank Sysol; and also, Sonya Worosz and Garret Arcoraci. The 1985 Homecoming Queen for Dunkirk High School, chosen by the student body, was JoAnn De Jesus.
Time, energy, and effort are a few important words that our part-time employed Seniors know well. Students working to earn extra spending money for a multitude of reasons, soon learn, the importance of juggling priorities. Learning how to manage time, as well as, their own earned money, comes as a shocking chore for some. Others, quickly learn the meaning of responsibility. Good times roll, for some with a few extra bucks, but for those more practical, the mighty greenback has a savings impact. A lot of students, feel a sense of “flying free,” and experience a natural all time high in knowing that employment for them really means financial independence from family and friends. Not having to borrow money for gas for their wheels, is unbelievable and what a relief of pressure, to know, that their vehicles don’t have to run on fumes. Keeping up with the latest styles and dress fads, seeing movies, buying the hit records or cassettes, satisfying fast food cravings, luckily purchasing concert tickets, and even dating and not going “Dutch-treat,” are all made possible by being a part of the job force.

Like everyone else though, working as a student, is not for everyone. Often, a curtailment of school activities and a strain on academics, as well as, the sacrificing of personal time is noticed. Not being able to partake in several memorable school involvements, is most usually felt. Many times, weekends don’t even seem to exist and body energy seems to be close to being burnt out.

Fast food restaurants, stores, businesses, and many other places in our community have provided a variety of opportunities. Regardless of whether it’s working due to necessity, for social functions or clothing, for gift giving or as a savings for college, or perhaps, even as an experience for future employment, we proudly acknowledge the employers and all of our “Seniors At Work.”

EDDIE MURPHY
Wings Against The Sun

Forever earthbound are my feet,
Upon the rocky road ahead,
But high among the clouds, my thoughts,
And so my heart is comforted.
And if one shoulder aches, I shift
The burden to the other side,
Remembering the times I’ve laughed,
And not the ones in which I’ve cried.
Too short indeed these precious years,
To let a dream die needlessly,
Beyond tomorrow there awaits,
A time and place designed for me,
And old hopes rising one by one,
Are golden wings against the sun!

— Grace E. Easley
Seed of Love

To cultivate a friendship
Is a very special art,
That starts with an upturning
In a corner of the heart.
The tiny seed of loving
Must be deeply planted there
And nurtured with the sunshine
Of warm and tender care.
Add a touch of humor
Just to help the plant along,
Lightly water it with teardrops
To make it grow more strong.
Soon the buds will start appearing
On each tiny stem and vine,
And shall bloom into a friendship
Of two hearts that intertwine.

— Margaret Ebert

I AM

I am the sun
And I am the rain
I am the laughter
The joy and pain
I am the hurt
And I am the fears
The understanding
The love and tears

— Grit

Graduation

Graduation has crept up upon us,
Farewell to the friends we love and trust
Graduation is a most important goal,
For when we reach, our hands will fold,
But we have to move on to proceed,
To accomplish our goals and opportunities.
Most of us will go on our separate ways,
Remembering we soon will be reunited on a special day.
But my friends we have such fond memories,
We will have a lifetime to think upon these.

— Sue Welch

Life’s Adventure

Life is a great adventure,
Each day a new surprise,
So sweep the cobwebs from your heart,
And open up your eyes.
Sorrow flees the sunlight,
So throw the windows wide.
And watch the brightness flooding in,
Warm everything inside.
Life is a great adventure,
For those who would explore,
The road winds upward and the wind
Taps lightly at the door.
And should the day be cloudy,
No reason to complain,
When trees along the avenue,
Are singing in the rain.
Life is a great adventure
Each day that passes by,
A dazzling panorama
As broad as it is high.
Beyond all comprehension,
The wonder of the spheres,
When one by one the hours make
A ladder of the years.

— Grace E. Easley

Forever, Never Not

I'm going to live
And never die
I'm going to laugh
And never cry
I'm going to give
And never take
I'm going to care
And never fake
I'm going to sing
And never pout
I'm going to talk
And never shout
I'm going to love
And never hate
I'm going to smile
And never rate
I'm going to forever
And never not.

THE IVY TOWER SALUTES
When I was a Freshman, a Senior wrote to me in my yearbook, "the key to being successful in high school is getting involved." Whatever your interest is, there always seems to be some kind of activity that lets you develop this interest, if you are willing to get involved. Taking part in different activities has really helped me to appreciate the different things Dunkirk High School has to offer besides a good education. Not only do these activities provide an outlet from studying, they also lead to lasting friendships with people who share the same interests. I've made close friendships with people who see me and accept me for what I am. These are friendships that will last even though we may go our separate ways. There seems to be something very special about friendships made in high school. We all share a common bond that won't be found in any relationships we will have in the future. Besides having the opportunity to make good friends among my peers, I also feel very lucky to have known and been friends with the teachers I have had. There are some very special teachers who have helped me greatly and have been there when I needed them through my years at DHS.

I really believe that your high school years are too important to just let them pass you by and leave you nothing to remember. It may have been hard at times, but it really has been a rewarding experience. I have some very special memories that I'll treasure forever and be able to look back on and see just how great these past four years have been.

— Melissa Patterson
Valedictorian 1986

As a member of the Class of 1986, I think I can speak for all of us when I say that what we have experienced at DHS is of great value to each of us. Through our dedication, we have been rewarded with a special new insight into ourselves and the world around us. We've been given an introduction to what life beyond the teenage years will be like. High school has served as a "safety-sealed sample" of the future, in that we've been given the opportunity to look ahead at the next stage in our lives, without experiencing all of the harsh realities of it.

As high school graduates, it will be our responsibility to take what we've learned and apply it to all the new, exciting challenges that lie ahead of us. As we look back upon the last four years, I'm sure many of us must admit that high school probably wasn't the best years of our lives, but they were the ones that shaped our personalities, our beings, and were therefore the most valuable. So to all future high schoolers, let me say that your next four years of education won't involve merely facts and figures and equations, but rather, it will offer you a growth of knowledge beyond the written page, one involving yourself.

Being salutatorian of the Class of 1986 means a great deal to me, not just because it entitles me to my own special label, but because it shows me that I've taken full advantage of what an education has to offer.

— Craig Notte

Our Very Special Friend

Dunkirk High School had the fortunate pleasure this year to have had Yuka Imai as the foreign exchange student from Japan. Yuka was sponsored by the Dunkirk Rotary Club. Dunkirk students readily could see that Yuka fit in well here, even though she came from the opposite side of the globe. After spending the greater part of the school year at the Dunkirk High School, one couldn’t help wondering how she felt about us.

The thing that Yuka liked most about the United States was that the people were friendly and genuinely nice. The opportunity of just coming to our country and meeting new people and going places all proved to be most exciting to her. When asked what she liked most about Dunkirk High, she responded, the cheerful people. It seemed to her that everyone always smiled to her. Without hesitation, Yuka immediately said that language was the biggest problem.

According to Yuka, the style of dress is basically the same for teen-agers in both countries, however, the colors are much louder and brighter here. Like most teen-agers, rock is her choice of music. Chicken wings — medium hot was Yuka’s choice of favorite food in the U.S., while fish and rice are her favorites in her homeland.

In regard to teachers and the school system at Dunkirk High, Yuka replied that the teachers are nice and friendly here. She quickly mentioned that the teachers talk much more during class here than they do at home; they often speak to you in the halls. At school in Japan, there is a more formal atmosphere. Yuka liked our school spirit. She said that students have school spirit there, but there are not as many sports and students study more. There they do not play basketball and they have no cheerleaders. She liked being a part of the pep rallies and even though she attended basketball games, she didn’t quite understand the rules. Nevertheless, through the cheering of the crowd Yuka knew when we were winning and felt the excitement as we did.

When asked the inevitable question about the difference between boys here and in Japan, Yuka thought the boys here were interesting but prefers the boys at home. Also, the boys there are much shyer. In Japan, it is mandatory for all students to study the English language. Yuka studied six years of English and still found the language barrier to be difficult.

Yuka has two brothers, ages fifteen and eighteen; and has a pet dog named, Daisuke. While in the United States, Yuka visited New York City, Chicago, Niagara Falls, Seattle, Vancouver, Washington, DC and Florida. She loved Disney World, but above all, Mickey Mouse. Yuka returned back home in March, but we will always wish her well and will remember her always as a very special friend.
